

Title:

Der Einfluss der Generation von '68 auf die deutsche Kultur (The Influence of the Generation of '68 on German Culture)

Student; Faculty:

Jennifer Johnson; Dr. Deulio

Abstract

The 1968 Student Movement in Germany has had a fundamental impact on the Germany we know today. The movement showed a generation of Germans that were able to use democratic values to bring about change in their society. While many would argue that the students were largely unsuccessful, what they did actually had a lasting impact on the culture and future of West Germany and today's united Germany. The movement is visible in various events and movements that occurred over the next few decades following the movement as well as in the areas of film and literature. This lecture will be in German.